Alison Abbott Boston Local Expert

Alison Abbott is a travel and lifestyle writer with a focus on sustainable shades of green living. She is a passionate design enthusiast, content creator, and small business strategist, who sings the praises of keeping it local whether at home or abroad. When not searching out the best of artisans, growers, and locales that make a destination unique, you can find her working as editor of the blog Green With Renvy.

Boston is a city full of charm, its residents dedicated to their sports teams and just as passionate about the historical significance of their location. An important college town, it has a youthful vibe you'll find anywhere. The population is hearty and resilient - where else will you find bikes pedaling through the snow in winter and sailboats on the water as soon as the ice is gone? The waterfront gives visitors access to beautiful Boston Harbor, to add to the long-standing allure of serious shopping and the freshest seafood around.
